

THE TWENTY-FIFTH TASTE OF MORLAND CHORISTERS' CAMP

WHERE CAN I STAY?

In the past, most people have lived near enough to be able to sleep in their own beds.

Word has spread, and we are delighted that we now have interest from further afield (and some local people seem to like camping as well!).

There is a campsite and a holiday cottage at Newby End Farm where you could arrange to stay. Alternatively, there are B&Bs etc. in the area where you might go.

Let us know what you would like and we will try to arrange it for you.

HOW DO I JOIN?

Complete the application form in this leaflet, and return it with payment, to Olivia Fyfe.

(You can download and print this leaflet, including the form, from the website: www.morland.org.uk/taste-of-morland).

A weekend of fun, singing and outdoor activities for children aged 6-12

Taste of Morland was intended as an introduction to Morland Choristers' Camp but it has taken on a life of its own as well.

WHO IS IT FOR?

We have room for up to 40 children aged 6-12 years of age and try to have equal numbers of boys and girls.

We have a new system this year for the pastoral care of the singers: Olivia Fyfe, who is now in charge of the arrangements for the weekend, is DBS checked and has experience of child-minding, so it is now possible for children to be left in our care during the daytimes.2

We hope, nonetheless, that some parents will wish to be around for the weekend to assist with the feeding arrangements and boost the singing.

We will also have a few 'senior' choristers who will have been to Taste of Morland before and will be able to help the youngest members with singing and general activities.

WHO RUNS IT?

We will be singing under the expert guidance of Emma Richardson. Emma grew up in Wigton, Cumbria before studying Music at the University of Huddersfield followed by training in Secondary Education. She is currently Subject Leader for Music at Dowdales School, Dalton-in-Furness.

Emma has been leading Taste of Morland for the past five years and is thoroughly looking forward to returning again this year.
